44 A Dangerous Nulsance."—The Journal of Commerce has a disinterested correspondent signing himself 'B.," who, while abusing the "upper board" of the sity government, is not ashamed to attempt to awaken unjut and wicked prejudices in the "popular branch" against Trinity Church because of the fitthy state of Thames street, a matter with which she has as much to do as she has with Nebraska or the iron interest. I know not whether this 'B.'' be the great B. of the primer, "with little b behind him," or whether he is the "busy bee" of Dr. Watts; but hat he is a troublesome insect, but a good deal of a humburgle very system from hi unceasing februs, in asson and the season of the company with unceasing februs, in asson and the season of the same good place in company with. Whether Trinity Church has anything to on with "the lager here cellare, grocaries and lew boarding houses" of our German population more than "B" has with the "mountain dew" distilleries of North Britton, may well be doubted in this community but he mistakes the common sense of Common Connolium by these renewed and repeated attempts to raise faise issues with them, as if they were his wax-dgures, his puppets, or his ten-pine, 'B'' will become a more decided "nulsance" to Councilium than Trinity Church yard is to railroad speculators.
